MONEY REMAINS UNCHANGED

Recession in Stocks Causes Loss of Previous Day's Gains, Though There Is a Sharp Rise in Consolidated Shares, Giving the Close of the Market Unexpected Strength.

New York, June 23.-Weather reports G from the Northwest to-day were declared by speculators in the grain market to be highly discouraging, and they resulted in a recovery of the major portion of yesterday's break in grain prices.

The reports, with careful reading and considered in the light of supplementary dispatches received from conservative agricultural and banking people in the spring wheat section, did not bear out the lugubrious views entertained on the Pennsylvania 1334 the lugubrious views entertained on the produce exchanges. It was true that drenching rains did not fall over the entire spring wheat belt, and the temperatures there are still somewhat above the normal; but it is also true that good rains have fallen in many scattered secrains have fallen in many scattered sections, and that the severity of the hot spell is undoubtedly less than it was. Moreover, the indications are for a further and more general fall of moisture, and it is evident, too, that the crop damage is not widespread over the entire spring wheat territory, but is really limited to only certain sections thereof.

Conditions Elsewhere Good. Unfavorable news regarding spring Amalgamated Copper..... 66% wheat in the present week is very considerably offset by highly favorable news from practically all other parts of the agricultural section. Corn is doing finely agricultural section. Corn is doing finely everywhere, and it is now admitted that the harvest of winter wheat is likely to meet the earlier expectations of its quantity when a bumper crop was looked for. The cotton market, too, declined upon Nevertheless, under these circumstances to-day and after yesterday's sharp rise of a full point in the price of the leading railway stocks, a recession in the market was unavoidable. In the course of it most of yesterday's gains were lost. The decline was conducted in an extremely listless way, market transactions being reduced from those of yesterday. At one time, indeed, it seemed as if the market was closing at an advance rather than a decline, or at least at a small decline because of the sympathetic strength given to the general list by a sharp rise in Consolidated Gas stock, a security that has in the last ten days a security that has in the last ten days seemed to present rather definite signs of accumulation. But the effect of the advance in the gas shares was offset by the announcement made in the afternoon of the passing of the semi-annual dividend of 21-2 per cent on the Minneapolis and St. Louis preferred stock.
